TOURIST AMENITIES IN THIS AREA ČESKÝ RAJ

There are not many places in Europe that offer as many natural attractions and beauties as Bohemian Paradise (Český ráj). At first glance, this hospitable landscape is scattered with dramatic rock formations, deep shady valleys, meandering rivers and quiet ponds surrounded by forests. Geologically unique objects such as Bozkovské dolomitoné jeskyně (caves), paleontological, mineralogical and archaeological locations and numerous plant and animal species deserve both our attention and our protection. Bohemian Paradise is the oldest protected landscape area in the Czech Republic and in 2005 it became the core of a new UNESCO Geopark. Bohemian Paradise, this exceptionally colourful mosaic of landscape types, geological phenomena and biotopes, complemented by historic monuments and typical folk architecture, covers almost 1400 square kilometres and is situated between the towns of Mladá Boleslav, Jičín, Nová Paka and Semily. For centuries the Bohemian Paradise area has attracted painters, writers, artists, and dreamers of all kinds. Discover this unique combination of bizarre rock formations, deep pine forests, majestic castles and sublime villages of timber cottages, losing yourself for a moment in the labyrinth that is the Bohemian Paradise area. Declared the first geopark in the country by UNESCO, the Bohemian Paradise area is one of the most popular tourist destinations in the Czech Republic. One of the biggest attractions is the area of rock formations between the towns of Jičín and Železný Brod. Thanks to the forces of nature you can admire lofty sandstone forms here, worn into weird and wonderful shapes, some of which are 60m tall. Some have been given strange names such as Taktovka (Baton), Kapelník (Choirmaster), Maják (Lighthouse) and Dračí zub (Dragon’s Tooth). The rock formations and labyrinths of the Bohemian Paradise area, and especially the Prachovské Rocks, are great places to explore thanks to the countless paths that run between them. You’ll be moving through narrow cracks in the rock, climbing up inside them and enjoying the views from their lofty heights. One of the finest views is from the Kozák tower. Nor should you miss a visit to the rock formations at Hrubá Skála and the elegant Hrubá Skála Chateau, perched right on top of the rocks. Another attraction is the ruins of Trosky Castle; to reach it you’ll have to climb to the top of two steep peaks that were once active volcanoes. If you love fairytale castles, head for impregnable Kost. Experience the authentic romance of a French chateau at Sychrov Castle, where the aristocratic Rohan family settled after the French Revolution. The Rohans were one of the ten most influential families in France, and as cousins of the French kings were awarded countless princely titles. The Baroque chateau in Mnichovo Hradiště tells the story of Czech warlord and politician at the time of the Thirty Years War, Albrecht von Wallenstein, who was murdered in cold blood by imperial officers. When you’re done with the Bohemian Paradise area, why not take a trip to the highest mountain range in the country, the Krkonoše. You can also head to Mladá Boleslav, a town indelibly associated with Škoda car production. Then there’s the town of Turnov, where the local museum has a comprehensive exhibition on jewellery production, a trade that has a long-established tradition in the region.

MĚLNÍK

There is no better way to enjoy the unforgettable charm of Mělník than to watch the sunset over the confluence of the two biggest Czech rivers right below its magnificent chateau while delighting your taste buds with the excellent local wine. Come and experience it for yourself! You can begin your stay in Mělník by walking around the square lined with beautiful arcaded buildings. Your gaze will certainly gravitate to the town hall and the adjacent former Capuchin monastery. If you like mysterious spaces with a special energy, you can descend into the medieval Mělník underground with the widest well in the Czech Republic. You can walk down Svatováclavská ulice (St. Wenceslas Street) to the Mělník Chateau and the dominant feature of the city, the beautifully decorated Cathedral of SS Peter and Paul, in whose crypt you can visit one of the largest ossuaries in the country, containing the remains of up to 15,000 people. Be sure to take a tour of the chateau. Not only will you see the rich collections of the Lobkowicz family but in its cellars you will also have a unique opportunity to sample the chateau wines from one of only two wine-growing regions in Bohemia. From the chateau restaurant you will have a magnificent view of the confluence of the Elbe and Vltava rivers, the St. Ludmila Vineyard, the majestic Říp Mountain and the volcanic peaks of the Central Bohemian Highlands. Visit the place where 23 Czech queens and princesses have lived. The Renaissance chateau in Mělník, together with the Church of Sts. Peter and Paul, rises above the confluence of the rivers Labe (Elbe) and Vltava. A tour of the chateau presents the rich collections of paintings and furniture of the Lobkowicz family, which owns the chateau today. From the chateau’s terrace and restaurant you will enjoy magnificent views of the confluence of the Labe and Vltava rivers, the majestic Říp Mountain, the volcanic peaks of the České středohoří (Central Bohemian Uplands) and the St. Ludmila Vineyard. The best known wine from Mělník, Ludmila in its distinctive bottle, is named for St. Ludmila. You can taste it in the chateau cellars. In the Great Hall of the chateau you can admire part of an outstanding collection of vedutas and maps of European countries and cities from the 17th century, which are a testament to the excellent skill of cartographers, graphic artists and printers of that period. A comparable group of maps can be found only in the collection of King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden. Near the chateau, in the crypt of the Church of Sts. Peter and Paul, you can visit one of the biggest ossuaries in the Czech Republic, containing the bones of up to 15,000 people. The Mělník Regional Museum is located in the former Capuchin monastery right in the centre of town and focuses on the history of winemaking in the region. A wine tasting in the 14th-century cellars here brings the museum tour to a pleasant conclusion.

KOKOŘÍNSKO

Do you want to retreat from the bustle of the modern world, at least for a day, and find refuge somewhere where time passes pleasantly slow? Come discover Kokořínsko – a beautiful region not far from Prague where you will find bizarre sandstone rocks, crystal-clear lakes, deep forests and one of the most romantic of all Czech castles. Wander through a region that seems to have tumbled out of the prettiest of picture postcards, a region which will simply stir your soul. A romantic silhouette towering over the region and also, in its time, one of the “cursed castles”. This is Kokořín Castle, standing on a sandstone cliff above the romantic valley of Kokořínský důl. When you walk in the shadow of its cylindrical tower, it is hard to believe that you are standing on what was once the bottom of a Mesozoic sea. You can put your detective skills in action to search for its remains, which are still apparent today. On a tour of the castle you will gradually discover its turbulent history. After being plundered during the Thirty Years War, it was deemed by Austrian Emperor Ferdinand to be one of the “cursed castles”, which were forbidden to be repaired. This designation may also have had something to do with its favourable placement, which posed a threat to royal power. Due to its location, the castle often became a sanctuary for robber knights, who long menaced the surrounding areas. Definitely do not forget to climb the cylindrical castle tower, which will give you a magnificent view of all of Kokořínsko.
